

TRANSFER OF BUILDING ELIGIBILITY - SECOND DWELLING WITHIN A FARMSTEAD APPLICATION PACKET

In the unincorporated areas outside of the Sioux Falls Joint Jurisdictional Area, a property owner wishing a second dwelling within their farmstead may apply to transfer an existing, unused residential building eligibility from their adjoining property into the farmstead. The county ordinance defines a farmstead as an area which contains the farm dwelling and agricultural buildings, is used as the center of operations for a farming operation, and is located on at least forty acres of land.

The property owner of a farmstead, who owns adjoining land which contains an available building eligibility, may transfer that eligibility to their farmstead by filing an application form (attached) with the Minnehaha County Planning Department and obtaining planning staff approval. The proposed residence must be located within the existing farmstead area and the transfer cannot result in more than two residences within the farmstead. If the additional residence is proposed to be placed outside of the farmstead, or if the transfer would result in more than two residences within the farmstead, the property owner may apply for a conditional use permit to enable the transfer. That process would be accomplished in the same manner as any other building eligibility transfer and must be addressed by the Minnehaha County Planning Commission.
